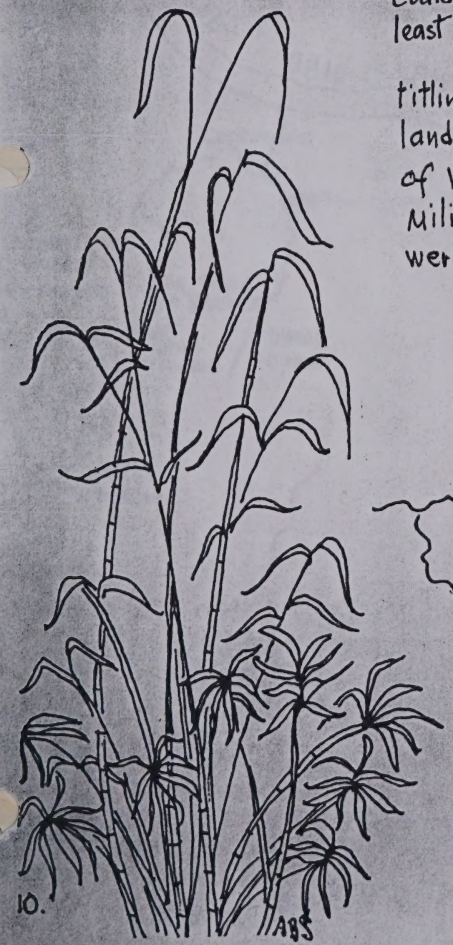
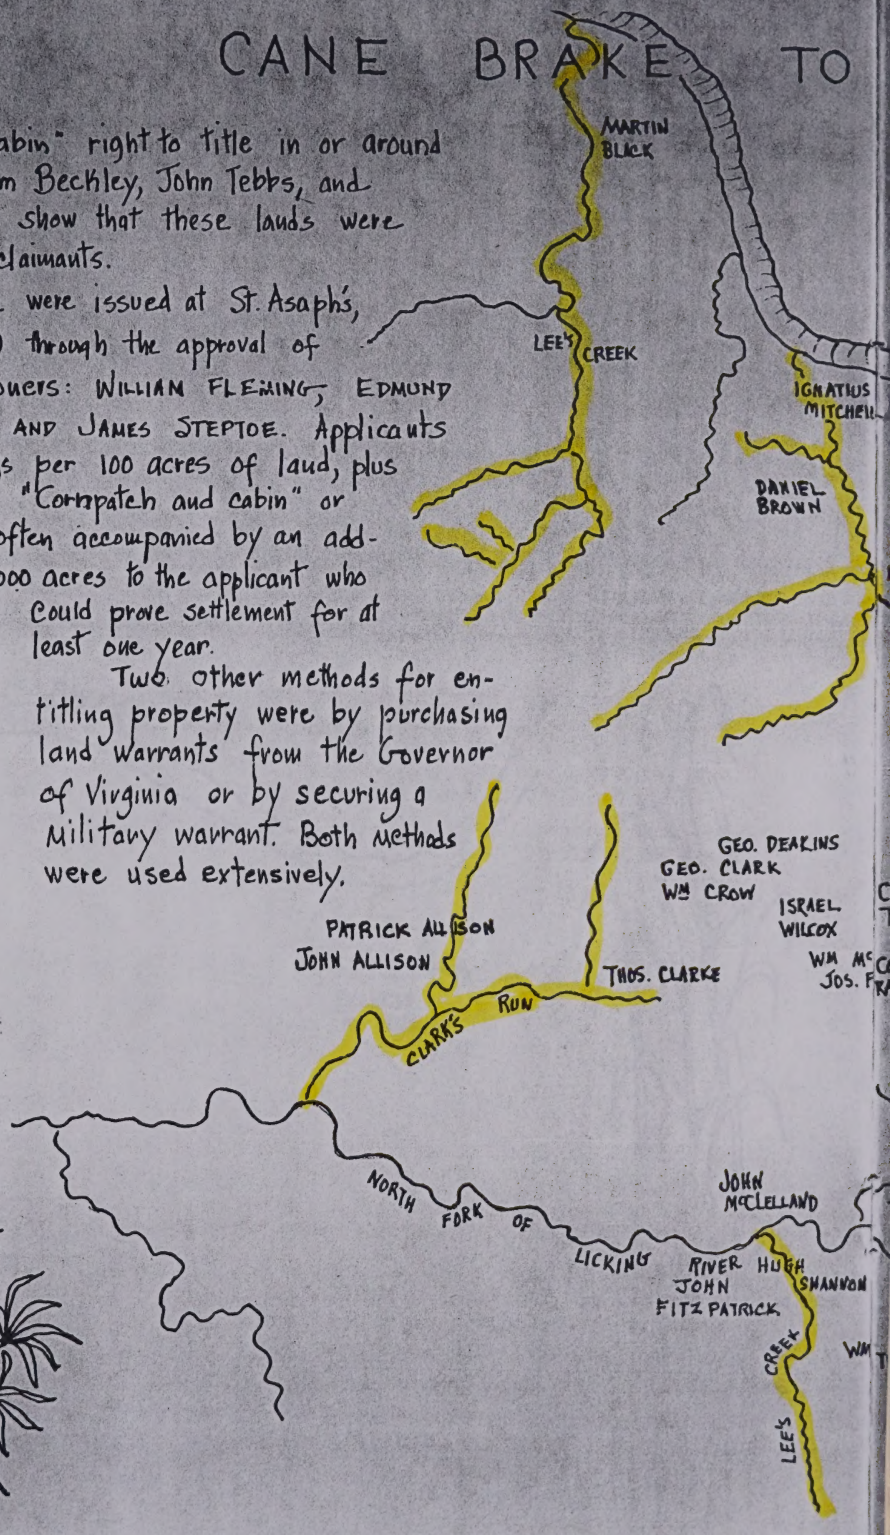
CANE BRAKE TO

of the "cornpatch and cabin" right to title in or around Washington were William Beckley, John Tebbs, and Angus Cameron. Records show that these lands were surveyed for the above claimants.

Certificates of title were issued at St. Asaphs, (where Stanford now stands) through the approval of four appointed commissioners: WILLIAM FLEMING, EDMUND LYNE, JAMES BARBOUR AND JAMES STEPTOE. Applicants were charged 10 shillings per 100 acres of land, plus 10 shillings for the clerk. "Cornpatch and cabin" or Settlement claims were often accompanied by an additional pre-emption for 1000 acres to the applicant who could prove settlement for at least one year.

Two other methods for entitling property were by purchasing land warrants from the Governor of Virginia or by securing a Military warrant. Both methods were used extensively.





CORN PATCH . . .

Dozens of warrants were issued to "corn patch and cabin" settlers, but due to vague descriptions as to exact location, they cannot be plotted here. Names of other settlers not shown below, but known to have at one time settled in the area are: Alexander McConnell, Francis McConnell, David Perry, Thomas Young, Samuel Wells, Hayden Wells, Christopher Johnson, George Stocton, John McCausland, Harrod Smith, James Waters, Patrick Jordon, Isaac Pearce, William Harrison, Robert Harrison, Henry Boyle, Joseph Farrow, John Masterson, Thomas Masterson, Nathaniel Hogman, William May, Richard Weid, George Lyall, Thomas Maxwell, Jacob Johnson, John McGrew, John Williams, David Vance, Wm Bartlett, Andrew Steele, William Lindsay, R. Marcus W. Lewis, author of the foregoing, was educated as a civil engineer, taking special courses at Miami University and Ohio State University. For eleven years he was engaged in general municipal and railroad engineering, and then for over thirty-five years was employed by the Corps of Engineers, U. S. Army, from which he retired in 1932. During this time he designed large engineering works in Minnesota and Wisconsin, and later, in the Office of Chief of Engineers, his duties consisted of the technical examination and approval of all plans and specifications for all River and Harbor Improvement Work done under the supervision of the Army Engineers.

Due to his life work as an engineer the subject of trails and maps of early days made a special appeal to him, and he devoted much time to this phase of genealogical research.

He is a life member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, and was first vice president of the National Genealogical Society.

Mr. Lewis has contributed to the Lewis Genealogy, and to Cape Cod Families and Their Descendants, and has made studies of the Campbell, Robinson, and Kennedy Families of Franklin County, Pennsylvania.

He is a descendant of George Lewis and Lemuel Lewis of Barnstable, Massachusetts, 1630, and Joseph Hallett of Yarmouth, Massachusetts.

One often hears the expression, "blazing the trail." We, the genealogical-minded members of our Society, feel that we are blazing the trail to make history and genealogy a major part of the objects and aims of our Society as our founders meant it to be. Just what blazing the trail meant in the days of adventure and danger is explained by Mr. Lewis as follows: "When an emigrant wishes to blaze an Indian trail which he is following through timberland, he chips off the bark of a nearby tree at selected intervals with his ax, and always on the side of the tree nearest the trail. The size of these blazes is about five inches wide and eight inches high. By this sign later emigrants can the more easily and rapidly follow. Should the later emigrant fail to find the blazed tree ahead for which he is always on the lookout, he knows that he has lost the trail and at once goes back to the last blazed tree and more carefully searches for the correct trail ahead until he finds it. Then he proceeds as before."

The great German, Scotch and Irish migration from Pennsylvania southward followed for the most part the Warriors Path across Maryland and down the Shenandoah Valley. Well known are the settlements of Joist Hite and Michael Woods. After them came that vast host—Keister, Keller, Stroud, Poage, McClanahan, Finley, etc.—that has given to the Valley of Virginia its distinctive character.

Below Roanoke, where the Blue Ridge broadens into an enormous oval, the Warriors Path turns westward into "The Wilderness." At this point the great tide of migration at first kept ahead to the Lower Cherokee Trader's Path, along which it swept by what is now Winston-Salem, Salisbury and Charlotte, N. C., into South Carolina where now is Spartanburg, Greenville and Pickens. In this tide, 1755-1760, were Adam Hedrick, Henry Hege or Hecke, Valentine Leonard and others who founded Pilgrim Church in the present Davidson County, N. C., and the Calhoons, Caldwells, Craigheads and other families whose names the Indians would permit, he used the same trails, and many portions of them were later followed successively by the white man's wagon roads so that the interesting fact is that several of the great state or national turnpikes and highways follow substantially the paths of the ancient animals and their later successors, the white settlers.

The one characteristic to which, ordinarily, there was no exception was the narrowness of the trails made by the ancients or the Indians. The Indian did not travel in single file because there was advantage in that formation; it was because his only routes were trails which he never widened or improved. The only exception to the narrow trail was at local points where shorter branches led to salt wells, or to maple-sugar orchards. With the opening of Government lands to the west of the Alleghenies, better trails or roads became imperative. The former narrow Indian trails had to be widened to allow the passage of the packhorse. This was followed later by the need for wagons.

The location of these early trails was carefully copied from the earliest maps prepared from actual surveys and which are on file in the Map Division of the Congressional Library at Washington, D. C. The copies were made either by making tracings on the originals or by proportionate reproduction. Only the earliest maps of each respective colony or state lying east of the Mississippi River were examined, and only those trails were finally selected which gave, with a fair degree of accuracy, the information sought.

The locations so selected were verified later by the careful examination of later maps which, by judging from the authorities and statements given, purported to show permanent highways. Usually from five to ten of the earlier published maps of each colony or state were examined. In almost every instance, the earliest maps of a colony or state are largely the results of guesswork or very meager or inaccurate methods of location, so that only the general direction between important early posts or forts can be taken to indicate approximately their actual location.

Throughout almost all sections of this country lying east of the Mississippi River water routes existed in places contiguous to the land trails, sometimes supplementing them and sometimes practically excluding them, that is, water transportation would take the place of a possible land trail where the topography was too rugged, uneven, or mountainous.

The more careful the investigation, the more clearly can it be shown that the Indian trails and not the rivers became the selected routes of the early emigrants who journeyed into the new countries of the west and south. Mr. Archer B. Hulbert, the well-known investigator, states that there was not an important trail in Ohio that was not found to be blazed, and that it is well known that the Red Men were not in the habit of blazing their trails.

A detailed description of the following emigrant trails, among the many listed, together with their connecting lines, in all probability, would be of much interest to investigators who have a liking for history, namely:

1. The Great Indian warpath.
2. The Occaneechi Path
3. The Natchez Trace.
4. The Buffalo Trace.
5. The Mohawk Trail.
6. The National Road.
7. The Great Trail.
8. The Boston-New York Post Road.

(A short sketch of each is given in the booklet, a few copies of which are still available. L. R. S.)

Personal letters should be addressed to 713 19th St., N. W., Washington, D. C.

TO successfully genealogize one must first locate the period and the successive places in which the family lived, beginning, of course, with the latest residence and working back.

The November number in this department contained a map of the United States boundaries as of 1790, with a few statements regarding the conflicting territorial claims of each state which existed at that time.

In order to have a clearer understanding of the routes that the emigrants traveled to reach their distant lands offered by the state and the government in payment for Revolutionary service or for purchase at a nominal price, we now present a sketch and map contributed by Marcus W. Lewis entitled "The Development of Early Emigrant Trails East of the Mississippi River," published by the National Genealogical Society of Washington, D. C.

It will be noted that fifty-five trails are traced and numbered. It should be borne in mind that these existed long before most of the states traversed were organized. It would be of special interest and value should one prepare a family emigrant map marking the trail over which the ancestor probably traveled in quest of a home and in that connection study the history of the localities, temporary stopping places, and the eventual permanent settlement.

The Census of 1850 and later schedules are of assistance in this connection for therein is given the birthplace and age of each member of the family. A recent search for records of a family of nine persons disclosed seven different states in which the births were recorded, viz: Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky and Indiana, all of which indicate the successive localities in which the family lived.

The value of genealogical research is not just a matter of names, dates and places. These are just the skeleton upon which to build the personal history, characteristics and achievements along with the sacrifices, the trials and the triumphs of those who collectively have "made and preserved us a nation."

The Development of Early Emigrant Trails

By Marcus W. Lewis

MORE or less well-established trails made by wild animals in search of food or drink existed upon the earth for long ages before the appearance of man, changing very slowly as local conditions were altered by erosion, climatic shifts or other causes.

Man found the lands already covered with these trails and began using them because they led him to water, to salt licks, and to other places where the primal necessities, that is, water, food, and materials for clothing, could be obtained. Later on these trails became media for friendly or hostile communication between the people themselves.

There was far more travel among the Indians in their early undisturbed condition than is usually supposed. This was sometimes for barter-commerce, sometimes for visits of a social, friendly, or religious character, and sometimes for purposes of war or adventure.

Indians actually covered our continent with a network of trails over which they ran long distances with great speed and endurance. These trails followed the lines of least resistance, always a most valuable feature in transportation or travel. In the selection of trails it is clearly indicated that they avoided rough, stony ground and dense undergrowth.

In later years, when the white man came, either on foot or on horseback, and when 1872 Hearn left Cincinnati for New Orleans and, ultimately, Japan.

Miss Stevenson describes fully and accurately Hearn, the reporter, and of the influence of his journalistic career on his later writings. She tells of his boisterous friends, chief of whom was the artist, Henry Farny. She writes sympathetically of his affair with Althea Holey, the negro housemaid, the cause of his leaving Cincinnati in bitterness.

Yet, in the five years that he was a journalist in Cincinnati, Hearn, shy and diffident, rose to the top of his profession locally, which was climaxed by his coverage of the infamous Tan Yard Murder Case. Hearn's reports of the high and low life of Cincinnati deserve to be collected and published separately, for they give a wonderful view of a Cincinnati not yet seen in print.

Miss Stevenson has not written the definitive life of Hearn, anymore than any biography can be conclusive about so complicated a man. But she has written the best biography to date of Lafcadio Hearn, one that will be the standard for a long time to come.

several scholarly books which were published by Eugen Diederichs in Jena: Das Religioese Leben in Amerika (Religious Life in America); Das Amerikanische Volksbildungswesen (American Public Education), and several short biographies on Schurz, Astor and Franklin. A book on the German-Americans and the war was written during a later sojourn in New York.

After the death of his wife and when the first World War broke out, Mueller returned to America with his daughter, his son-in-law, the well known violinist and conductor, Theodore Spiering, and their two children. But in the mid-twenties the quiet peaceful setting of his native town beckoned once more, and he went back to Germany. Here in Heppenheim he spent the last years of his life. He died in 1931.

Although he forsook the United States for the city of his birth in his final years, William Mueller could have derived satisfaction from the knowledge that he had made a profound contribution to the intellectual life of those communities in which he had resided. He was but one rivulet in that mighty stream of intellectualism which flowed in with the immigration of the Germans. Certainly Cincinnati benefited from his residence. He singularly enriched the cultural development of this community, and helped set it off on a tack from which it has never shown deviation.

KLAUPRECHT'S CHRONIK - - - DES OHIO THALES ABOUNDS IN GENEALOGICAL DATA ABOUT GERMAN PIONEERS

by MARIE DICKORÉ

When all other sources fail to disclose the exact name for which you are searching in pioneer days of the Ohio valley, you may find an untapped well-spring of genealogical information in the various diaries and accounts of writers, travelers and itinerant preachers who recorded their experiences. They usually had a keen interest in settlers whom they visited or met. Frequently they gave not only the name and location of a family with whom they stopped for the night or meals, but named the children and neighbors.

One of the most dependable sources of information about German families in the Ohio valley, especially in early Cincinnati, is the little volume by Emil Klauprecht, Deutsche Chronik in der Geschichte des Ohio-Thales und seiner Hauptstadt Cincinnati in's Besondere (German Chronicle of the history of the Ohio valley and its capital Cincinnati especially). This was published in 1864 in Cincinnati and had widespread circulation, especially in Europe.

Klauprecht was one of those dedicated Germans who adventured to the United States in behalf of his countrymen seeking more opportunity for new homes and freedom. He was born 1815 in Mainz, Germany, came to the United States in 1832, joined Adolph Menzel in his lithographic shop in Cincinnati in 1835, but soon after that entered his chosen field of journalism. Here he is especially noted as the founder of Die Fliegende Blaetter, the first German cultural and literary publication in America. The Historical and Philosophical Society owns the only known complete set of this interesting publication. (See Schoolfield's article: "The Great Cincinnati Novel," pages 44 to 59.)

his chief sources was the manuscript collection of the Historical and Philosophical Society. He cited sources which are not readily available today and in footnotes adds valuable information. He mentioned the use by England of German troops in the forks of the Ohio during the French and Indian War. He even quoted from a letter written 1774 by George Washington in which he suggested bringing Germans from the Palatinate to open up the western country, promising them free passage to the Potomac and the Ohio and provisions until the first crops were in. The land was to become property of the settler in four years if no house was built on it, but in two years if a permanent home was established.

Of much help is the correct spelling of names which local clerks and writers often misspelled unintentionally thus causing confusion. Klauprecht scattered many names throughout this book but in the chapter about Cincinnati we find long lists and from these we have appended the more important. Of real value are the fifty-two names of Germans and Swiss who took out their citizenship papers. Such records are almost impossible to locate today.

We agree with Klauprecht's sentiment that a people will only then win the respect and esteem of its neighbors and friends if it honors the achievement of its ancestors and perpetuates their memory from generation to generation.

NAMES OF GERMAN SETTLERS FOUND IN KLAUPRECHT'S DEUTSCHE CHRONIK DES OHIO THALES

In Cincinnati these were bakers: Abraham Bobinger, A. Hafer, George Juppenlatz, J. N. Gruener, Jacob Fabler, Martin Beuninger, August Eiteljoerg.

A. H. Ernst (who died in 1861) was one of the founders of the Horticulture Society, Spring Grove Cemetery, florist and orchardist. At first he had a bakery. He came in 1807 with his father, John Zacharias Ernst (died 1821), from Hannover, Germany.

Among confectioners were August Zeumer at the Columbia Hotel on Lower Market Street, and John Meyers.

Jonathan Staelber was among the noted gardeners who advertised in the Gazette, Nov. 28, 1815, and later laid out the Longworth gardens. Hechinger had a truck garden at Third and Broadway, Gode had a truck garden in Deer Creek Valley, Licht and Danzer had a truck farm on upper Vine Street.

Among inn-keepers were Link and Dannheimer. Butcher stores were kept by Jacob Waltenrath, Jonas Hecker and Johann Reis. Among the merchants in 1816 were Buhring and Breuning. Adolph Wupper was a piano teacher.

The Rev. Mr. Joseph Zaeslein (died in 1817) was the minister at the English Lutheran Church founded in 1813 and known as St. John's. Among the members were Zacharias Ernst and his son A. H. Ernst; Friederich William Beinbrecht; Andreas Hopple, John Herz, Louis Schaefer, William Steg, August Zeumer, H. G. Hofer, Jonathan Strickler and Bernhardt Gilbert.

Klauprecht tells about an early German church on Arch Street (1817–1820) whose membership included Frank Link, Jacob Hummel, Abraham Bixler, David Aupperle, George Gettier, Fr. Schmidlapp, J. G. Hoefer, Jacob Guehlich, J. W. Fruehlingsdorf, Martin Benninger, John Bubritt, Jonathan Staelber, Friederich Herzog and Karl Hanselmann.

In about 1820 the following were members of a German Church on Third Street: Rev. Louis Henry Meyer, Dr. Ritter, Tron, Kapp, Boemeler, Jos. Schiele, Jacob Suter, Albert Stein, Autenheimer, Vogelgesang, Techhaus, Sprigman, Capt. John Jacob Schroeder (from Hessen-Darmstadt, Germany). Albert Stein was the engineer for the first waterworks in Cincinnati, also for the cities of New Orleans and Nashville.

Christian Burkhalter lived on Martin Baum's farm in Deer Creek Valley. He had been secretary to Prince Bluecher. In Cincinnati he became editor and publisher of Westliche Merkur.

Among travelers and writers were the Swiss Julius Ferdinand von Salis, a naturalist who wrote his memoirs but died (c. 1819) before they were completed, and Johann L. Friederich von Jenner from Berne, Switzerland, who died 1821 in Cincinnati.

Klauprecht notes two physicians, Dr. Horwitz and Dr. Frank Joseph Constantin Oberdorf, who died in Cincinnati Nov. 15, 1860.

Among first settlers and land owners in the Cincinnati area Klauprecht names: Martin Baum, Louis Lang, Edward Stall, George Strohhuber, Frank Kebsheimer, Frederick Hoeflich, Andreas Boden, Jacob Kautz, August Erich, Michael Hahn, Frederick Alter, Henry Hafer, Casper Fahs, Frederick Fegekorn, David Musselmann, Henry Bechtle, Robert Bohl, Christopher Ehrenfeight, Henry Seiz, George Leibin, Wm. Tilly, Frederick W. Beinbrecht, George Juppenlatz, Peter Knoepfle, Andreas Westfahl, Lorenz Hildebrand.

For the genealogist the most important of Klauprecht's lists of German settlers in the Cincinnati area is that of fifty-two pioneers who availed themselves of the privilege of citizenship and took out their naturalization papers. He states that from 1790 to 1812 no Germans asked for such papers here.

HAMILTON COUNTY, OHIO - DEED RECORDS - DEED BOOK B-1

The following records were abstracted for genealogical information and are to be used as a finding aid. Due to the fact that many were quite detailed, land descriptions have not been included. It should be remembered that at this early date (prior to 1803), Hamilton County's boundaries included a large portion of southern Ohio. Many of the mortgages to John Cleves Symmes were levied on at a suit of Gashom Gard vs. John C. Symmes on October 19, 1803; however, some mortgages were assigned to others. Terms followed by Symmes in disposing of his land were that each purchaser was bound to begin improvements within two years, or forfeit one-sixth of the land to whomsoever would settle thereon and remain seven years.

Abbreviations used are: P of A = Power of Attorney.
Mtg. = Mortgage.

Page on which record may be found is given in parenthesis.

There was a total of 512 surveys in the county but only 101 patents were recorded.

"The early settlers, in their haste to enter and locate lands and reclaim from the woods the fertile acres they had bought and make a comfortable home for their families,were often careless about their titles, and frequently suffered gross imposition. The records and tradition speak of many who had to pay twice for their possessions, others who had to give again half of the original price paid by them years before, and some who lost their lands entirely and were compelled to leave their farms, already partly cleared and on the swift road to improvement and cultivation. Oliver Towles' survey #1239,of 1000 acres,lying on Pond Run, or Cross Creek,and situate in Tate & Monroe townships,was surveyed by John O'Bannon Apr.17,1788,on Military Warrant #855 and patented to Oliver Towles,Jr.,Feb.27,1802,by Pres.Jefferson. Under some color of title, William Lytle claimed this tract,one of the finest bodies of choice land in the county and sold it to purchasers who lost every acre they had bought with their silver dollars by Lytle's want of title.
(History of Clermont County by J.Rockey & R.Bancroft,pblg.1880.)

Because of lack of space the number of the survey,amount of acres and in what townships located will be omitted. Several of the surveys are partly in this county and partly in Brown, Hamilton, Warren, and Clinton Counties. "X" denotes having more than one Survey.

Belmont County was formed in 1801 from Washington and Jefferson Counties. The county seat is St. Clairsville. Because of the beauty of its countryside it was known as "Bonny Belmont". In the 1960's strip mining started in a large section.

Clermont County was formed in 1800 and was an original county. The county seat is Batavia. Portions of Brown and Highland Counties were taken from a part of Clermont County - Highland County in 1805 and Brown County in 1817.

St. Clairsville Union Cemetery

This cemetery is on St.Rt.9, near U.S.Rt. old 40. It is a huge cemetery and some sections are very old. It is very well cared for and old stones are carefully repaired. I was there a week in June 1960 and the caretaker at that time took great pride in its care. I copied a large percentage of the inscriptions but because of the large number I will list at this time only those born before 1820. At one time a log Presbyterian church stood about the center of the cemetery, built in 1797. A Quaker cemetery is close by and very old but I found many stones illegible.

(The following records were abstracted only as a finding aid for the genealogist, complete land descriptions were not included. Pages on which original record may be found are given in parenthesis. William Lytle and Philip Buckner, among others, purchased large tracts of land that had originally been granted for military service in the Virginia Military District, they then divided these tracts into smaller tracts which they then sold.)

1810 Tax List Adams Co., O.

I recently acquired a book, recommended to me by Dorothy Limbach of Yellow Springs, Ohio, which I find very helpful, especially in reading German tombstone inscriptions and Bible records. It is "HOW TO READ THE HANDWRITING and RECORDS OF EARLY AMERICA". It is published by Deseret Book Company, 44 East South Temple, Salt Lake City, Utah. Another valuable pamphlet recently received is "MAJOR GENEALOGICAL RECORD SOURCES IN GERMANY" published by Genealogical Society of Church of Latter Day Saints, 107 S. Main St., Salt Lake City, Utah 84111. It was surprising to find that in Germany, Deeds are available from the 7th Century to the present time and Probate Records from the 13th Century to the present time. It makes one wonder why we have to fight to save the records of such recent dates in this country.

CORRECTION: Vol. VIII, #3, page 159. Sarah Russell died Apr.4, 1870, not 1868. Correction by Caroline Lindsey, Melbourne Beach, Florida.
CORRECTION: Vol. V, #2, page 69. Samuel Heston married Rebecca Marsh, not Samuel Huston. (Samuel married 2nd Rebecca Gilbert). Correction by Mrs Althea Redman, Iowa City, Iowa.

In the "PENNSYLVANIA 1810 CENSUS INDEX" will be found a few missing names from Dov to Dru and from Er to Ew; less than 50 names.

A RICE-KING-BAKER Family Lineage will be found in the Dallas, Texas Genealogical Society Quarterly for March 1967. Artemas Baker came early from Connecticut to Ohio and married at Windham, Portage County,Ohio, Mehitable Conant. In 1811 son William was born in Licking County,Ohio, according to this lineage. Members of the family later went to Louisiana and Texas.

BACON RIDGE CEMETERY, Vol. VII, #2, pages 80-81. A subscriber sends the following helpful information: Jane (Snodgrass) Taylor was b 1797, a 1854, age 57. Son James b 1822, d 1842. John, son of John & Mary(Swickard)Taylor, grandson of Jane d 1860,age 1 mo. Son George b 1827, d 1856, age 28. Jane's husband George, was supposed to have died December 21, 1855, age 61.

BURGETT BIBLE RECORDS will be found in The Coos Genealogical Forum Quarterly, Coos Bay, Ore., Spring 1967 issue. William H.H. Burgettwas born Mar.3,1841 in Ashtabula County,Ohio; married July 16,1865, Christina Bacon born July 16,1844. His 2nd wife Susanna Miller was born in Missouri. William was the son of Isaiah & Betsy Burgett of Ohio.

THE LINDESMITH FAMILY, Vol. V, #2, page 82. Mrs Ron Gardner of Albuquerque, N.M. sends this additional data: Salome Lindesmith, daughter of Peter & Susan married in 1826 John C(K)issinger,born Jan.8,1806, Somerset Co.,Pa. and came with his father when a babe to the Dungannon area. They had 4 sons and 3 daughters. They were members of the Lutheran Church and later lived at Moultrie.

1810 Clermont Co., O.

A notice from the Starke, Bradford County, Florida, Chamber of Commerce informs me that on March 29, 1967 the license of Mrs. Sandy Miller, Genealogist, to do business was revoked. Complaints had been received from almost every state.

Some subscribers failed to notice the change in the subscription price to $6.00 for 1967. Others were misled by the error in price given in The Genealogical Helper ad for OR&PF subscription.

CORRECTIONS: Vol. VIII, #1, page 5. Warren County was formed from Hamilton County, not Warren as repeated.

Vol. VII, #4, page 194, second line from bottom of page. The name should be Susan Reese-not Rees; and they had two sons, Harry who is now deceased and Robert Waddle Collar who resides near Vaughnsville on the home place,who was 85 years old on Feb. 24,1967. Correction by Pat Collar, The Lima News, Lima, O.

I am very happy to report the recent success of interested Massillon citizens in saving one of Stark County's most historical homes. The house and furniture are unusually interesting. Thomas Rotch, a Quaker and member of the famous whaling family of Nantucket and New Bedford, Mass. settled in what is now part of Massillon in the fall of 1811, calling himself proprietor of the Town of Kendal, which he recorded at Canton, the county seat, in the spring of 1812. He built his "mansion" for his wife Charity, and here they lived briefly before their deaths in 1823 and 1824. Some furnishings were brought from Nantucket. Arvine Wales, who had lived and worked with the Rotches purchased the home from the Rotch heirs in 1831, and the Wales family has occupied the house all but a few years since that time. Recently the ownership of the property passed from the Wales family to a group formed to develop the property for residential and other uses. Such development would possibly have destroyed the home. The house is very unique in the way it was arranged to care for runaway slaves, including a hidden stairway from the basement to the attic that by-passed other floors. A Massillon Museum Foundation was established on June 11, 1966 to purchase and preserve this home, known as "Spring Hill". On Dec. 1, 1966 the homestead with a few of the original acres was purchased. More funds are needed to acquire more of the land and to restore and maintain the property, as an historical site, later to be opened to the public. These citizens to be highly commended.

The Sept. 1966 issue of THE GENEALOGICAL FORUM of Portland, Oregon contained several articles of interest to Ohioans. On page 9- "MERRILL LAKE CEMETERY ABANDONED". This cemetery on the farm of Joseph Merrill, born in Ohio in 1818 and there married Elizabeth FREEMAN. He settled his land claim in Oregon in 1849. Also buried here are McKinnon, Falconer and Alonzo Smith children. On page 14 Death Notice of Francis E. Garlough. He died June 1966, born in Springfield,O.,1877; son of Edward Garlough, grson of Jacob H. (b 1796 in Md.), later to Ohio; gr-grson of John H. Garlough(b 1763 in Md.) etc. On page 15-The Family of William Davis-William Davis b 1754, Monmouth Co.,NJ; d 1834 in Pike Co.,O.; md in E. Jersey Elizabeth Havens and had 11 children. To Clark Co., O.,1832. etc

MUNGER-BUTT CEMETERY - MIAMI TOWNSHIP - MONTGOMERY COUNTY, OHIO

Contributed by: Robert C. Kennedy, 1524 Laird Ave., Dayton, Ohio 45420

Cemetery is located on what was once Solomon Butt's land in SE¼ Section 8 of Miami township (originally a part of Washington twp.) a short distance from the Washington twp. line. Cemetery is located about 40 yards from the first jog in Munger Road which comes from Mad River Road, this road then takes a circuitous route around a heavily forested area, then heads due north into the Alexandersville-Bellbrook Road. The cemetery is in a stand of trees surrounded by a section of new homes being built by Zengel Construction Company.

BUTT, Esther wife of Jacob Butt, born Penna. 1775 or 1777, died July 1, 1857 aged 21 years 8 days (?) (note: broken stone lying flat)
BUTT, Jacob born April 30, 1770 died (?) aged 64 years (intact stone lying flat)
MUNGER, Nancy died Feb. 28, 1863 (note: stone lying flat)
WHISLER, Daniel L. died Dec. 18, (?) aged 34
SAUM, Children of Joseph and Martha Saum (broken monument with just base remaining)

DISTRIBUTION OF MAJOR IMMIGRANT GROUPS IN COLONIAL AMERICA

practically a state within the state in Roman Catholic France. In 1685, however, the edict was revoked, and singly and in groups the Huguenots took the first opportunity to leave the country, until a total of about 300,000 had left for England, the Netherlands, America, and elsewhere, only a small minority of them going to the English colonies.

Like the French Protestants, many German Protestants suffered from the arbitrary enactments of their rulers; and German Catholics as well as Protestants suffered even ple and others fairly novel. Regular troops were now to be stationed permanently in the provinces, and by the Mutiny Act (1765) the colonists were called upon to assist in provisioning and maintaining the army. Ships of the navy were assigned to patrol American waters and look out for smugglers. The customs service was reorganized and enlarged, and vice-admiralty courts were set up in America to try accused smugglers without

SKETCH SHOWING BY DOTTED LINE THE ROUTE PURSUED BY BRADDOCK'S ARMY THROUGH THE EASTERN PAN-HANDLE OF WEST VIRGINIA.

The Army crossed the Potomac from Maryland into Virginia, at Evan Watkin's Ferry, which had been established by an Act of the Virginia House of Burgesses, October 9, 1744—eleven years before—at the mouth of Conococheague Creek. Thence it proceeded up the eastern side of the Opequon river by the pioneer home of John Evans, thence to that of the widow Barringer, thence to that of one Potts, thence to Henry Enochs, in the "Forks of Cacapon" and thence to that of Friend Cox, at the mouth of Little Cacapon river, where, at the "Ferry Fields" it recrossed the Potomac into Maryland, and pressed on to Fort Cumberland—now Cumberland City, in Western Maryland.—W. MASON COUNTY, KENTUCKY, COURT RECORDS

"RETURNS OF MINISTERS' MARRIAGES"

Contributed by

Mrs. Lula Reed Boss
Maysville, Kentucky

These returns, with marriage dates, were recently found in file boxes in the office of the County Clerk of Mason County and are a "real find" as there are no Bonds in existence for many of the marriages listed. Therefore, many are not in the copy of Mason County Marriage Bonds as compiled several years ago by Limestone Chapter, DAR, of Maysville, Kentucky.

BOURBON COUNTY, KENTUCKY, MARRIAGE BONDS

Bourbon County, Kentucky, being the fifth county formed in the Commonwealth, May 1, 1786, contains some of the most important early records for Kentucky researchers, and we are here pleased to commence a record of the marriage bonds for the period 1786-1851. This is a very lengthy compilation, and it will be necessary to present it in a number of installments, but we will try to divide it into no more than five parts. I believe this to be the most complete listing to be published to date.

CORRECTION from previous listing:

Frye, Abraham Hersman, Caty Oct.16,18(

This correctly should read "Hersman" not Heathman as previously listed. Correction sent in by Mrs. H.M.Sole, 217 North 3rd Street, Apt.1, Vincennes, Indiana 47591 who is interested in these families

CORRECTIONS

Michael Goodright	Curtright, Lucinda	Cornelius Curtright	Sept.4,1829
Hezekiah McCann	Curtright, Polly	Samuel Curtright	Mar.4, 1816

This correction sent by Royale R. Crabtree, 1221 Arlington Place, Winter Park, Florida 32789. He states"The will of Samuel CURTRIGHT as found in the Clerk's office, Bourbon County Court, Will Book H, p.55, mentions Cornelius CURTRIGHT, Hezekiah McCann, Polly McCann. Cornelius CURTRIGHT was father of Samuel. The spelling was checked carefully, and the names on deeds in land transactions with Lord Fairfax show the name as CURTRIGHT - not Cartwright.

In UNION COUNTY MARRIAGE RECORDS (Vol.1, #2), p.25, April 1979: Elias Lynn who married Polettamis(?) Balone should read: Elias Lynn to Polexina Below. Polexina was daughter of Aaron S. and Sally (Richards) Below. Elias was son of John and Jane (Penny) Lynn. Names of parents are found in the Union County History 1886.
Correction sent in by Janet Logan.
